!!EXCLUSIVE!! Download Atapwd 1.2 Hard Disk Password Utility.rar

however, this is often not true. most people are not aware that most hard disk drives have the ability to set a hardware password, just like the bios password for motherboards, thus making the drive completely inaccessible unless a correct password is provided during the bios post test. usually these features can only be found in laptops, this is when you set a password on your notebook, the hard drive together with the motherboard becomes locked. if you can not recover the master password and you have just a user password, here is a simple method to unlock your hard drive. please note that the drive will be wiped and there is no way of recovering. you can use the disk to recover the master password, however, if you are not familiar with the basic commands in the command line, it will be very difficult for you to do so. once you have found the hdd password, you can either try to change it or simply lock it. lock the drive, the user password will be removed and hdd password will be set to the "default" password which is the same as the master password. of course, if your hdd password is correct, you won't need the master password. the first step is to remove the hdd password. when you remove it, the drive will be put into the locked state. when you close the password utility, the hdd password will be removed. it can be tricky to remove the hdd password because hdd password is stored in the master boot record (mbr) of the disk. the mbr is part of the first sector of the disk. usually the mbr is in the first sector of the disk. you need to search for the mbr and then you can remove it using the utility.
